- Having the required documentation is vital to your program.
- For your district to claim PRS eligible days present for funding, all required documentation supporting a student's eligibility must be on file. Documentation requirements are listed in the SAAH Section 9.15.
- Documentation should be legible and easily reproducible.
- Ensure all required dates and signatures are documented appropriately

SAAH Documentation Requirements

- 1. Affirmation by a campus official or by a licensed medical practitioner verifying the student's eligibility to receive PRS (see 9.3 Enrollment Procedures)
- 2. Intake documentation by a campus official recording the date of initial contact with a student regarding the student's pregnancy (see 9.7 On-Campus PRS Support Services)

For each period of prenatal confinement, documentation from a licensed medical practitioner stating a medical necessity for confinement that requires the student to remain at home or in the hospital and specifying the anticipated length of the prenatal confinement (see 9.8 CEHI during Prenatal Confinement)

4. Documentation by a campus official of the date when the student's pregnancy ended (see 9.9 CEHI during Postpartum Confinement)

SAAH Documentation Requirements

- 5. When the break-in-service option is used, documentation by a campus official of the infant's hospitalization period(s), including the date(s) the infant was released from the hospital (see 9.9 CEHI during Postpartum Confinement)
- 6. For each student whose postpartum period was extended, documentation from a licensed medical practitioner stating a medical necessity for confinement that requires the student to remain at home or in the hospital and specifying the anticipated length of the extended confinement (see 9.9 CEHI during Postpartum Confinement)

SAAH Documentation Requirements

- 7. When the prenatal student confined to the home or hospital returns to campus to receive temporary, limited support services or take required state assessments, documentation by a licensed medical practitioner granting permission for the student to be on campus for the temporary, limited services (see 9.11 Returning to Campus for Support Services or Testing)
- 8. When a special education student is served through the PRS program, both PRS and special education documentation (see 9.12 PRS and Special Education Services (SPED)

SAAH Documentation Requirements

9. The teacher's log of the actual amount of CEHI each student received for each week the student received CEHI (applies to both prenatal and postpartum periods)

The minimum documentation required in the logs maintained by a CEHI teacher is the following:

- the name of the teacher,
- the student's name and Texas Unique Student ID,
- the date that the teacher visited the student, and
- the specific time period that the student was served (for example, 10:00 a.m. until 12:00 p.m.)

PRS and Special Education

- If a student is receiving Special Education services prior to the pregnancy, special education services must be provided in the homebound setting.
  - The student's ARD should reflect her homebound need and the coding should be changed to homebound when the home instruction begins.
  - The student should have SPED logs showing 4 hours per week of special education homebound services by a certified special education teacher to receive a week of attendance. (See Section 9.12.2 of the SAAH)
  - The student can be served an additional 2 hours of CEHI to receive PRS funding for the same week.
  - If the SPED homebound services are not provided, the student must be counted absent even if PRS services were provided. (Result is no funding)

PRS and Special Education

- When CEHI and/or SPED homebound services are provided, the teacher must maintain service logs and document—
  - Dates services provided
  - Beginning and ending time for each session or amount of time served
  - Logs must be signed by the teacher providing the service. For SPED homebound services the teacher providing the service and signing the log must be the certified SPED teacher.

Summary: What to review?

- Dates Check that all required PRS dates are documented.
- CTE Indicator Double check that the career and tech indicator is turned off for PRS students while they are being served at home.
- Doctor's Notes Ensure all student's receiving prenatal or extended CEHI have required doctor's notes.
- Pregnancy End Date This date starts the eligible six weeks of service; therefore very important.
- Return to class Date A student may not always return to class the same date as they exit the PRS program, so this date needs to be recorded for attendance purposes.

Pregnancy Related Services

Pregnancy Related Services are support services, including Compensatory Education Home Instruction (CEHI), that a pregnant student receives during the pregnancy prenatal and postpartum periods. Districts may choose whether to offer a PRS program. If a district chooses to offer a PRS program, it must offer CEHI services as part of that program, as they are mandatory. The programs are designed to help students adjust academically, mentally, and physically and stay in school. These services are delivered to a student when:

- · the student is pregnant and attending classes on a district campus;
- · the pregnancy prenatal period prevents the student from attending classes on a district campus; and
- · the pregnancy postpartum period prevents the student from attending classes on a district campus.

Texas Education Code §29.081(d) identifies a student at risk of dropping out of school if the student is pregnant or is a parent. See the rules for operation of a PRS program in the Texas Administrative Code (TAC) Section 129.1025, or on the Student Attendance Accounting Handbook page on the TEA website.
